From every hill and dale throughout the South comes the echo of "quarantine."

Unfavorable reports from the foreign wheat crop are having a telling effect on the New York market. Prices are advancing.

New Orleans has quarantined against Memphis. The very climax of absurdity. It is as rational though as for a cat to quarantine against fleas.

Cincinnati invites St. Louis and Chicago to come and spend the heated term, while Louisville throws open her doors to the South, where infectious disease is prevalent. Mark the difference.

The trial of Tom Buford is steadily progressing at Owensboro. It is yet involved in doubt as to what will be the decision of the jury. The case will be tedious and will involve considerable expense.

Crop reports from England are not favorable. John Joseph Mechi, the noted scientific agriculturist, writes to the London Times that:

"Another week of flooding, storms and low temperature, has put the finishing stroke to the agricultural disaster. It is now too late for the crops to ripen. There are considerable losses in wheat, corn, and other grain crops. The water is simply ruinous. Wheat will not be worth sowing."

The Republicans are making an unearthly howl about the Democrats refusing to give an ex-federal soldier a place on their State ticket. "Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones," says:

In the Republican convention Gen. Eli H. Murray, a gallant Federal soldier, was beaten in the nomination for Governor by Walter Evans, who only made one soldier in a very brief campaign, and he is the only soldier on the ticket.

Secretary Burch is very properly considering the propriety of refusing Senator Sharon his salary. The Senator has been in his seat only one or two days during the session and although it is probable the country gained by it, yet, nevertheless, the treasury should not suffer to the extent of eight thousand dollars to reward this piece of patriotism.

Non-Jefferson Davis has not yet learned the value of silence. For his country's sake he should remain quiet.—Fraser.

This of course refers to his late address before the Mississippi Press Association. There is but little objectionable in it to any one. The Republicans are already charging that while the South professes loyalty to the Union she is a traitor at heart. We beseech you Mr. Deering to withhold such criticism. Mr. Davis' candor is an honor to himself, while your advice but implies the truth of this scandalous Republican charge.

So far 13,890 pensioners have been settled with under the recent back pension act. To these were paid $7,220,474.44, or $520 each. Kentucky has received only a forty second part of the amount, and yet she furnished a tenth part of the Union army. Unless it be that Kentuckians are adepts at bullet dodging it can but be that the great Harlans, Evanses, Felands and Wadsworths have been sadly negligent in having the one hundred thousand Union soldiers of the State duly rewarded.

One has but to observe in order to be apprized of the fact that there is much heartlessness in this world. Charity is to many unknown. Even cases of selfishness can be occasionally traced to active churchmen. They will go to their Sabbath school work smilingly, they will bend low the knee of worship and pray aloud in the presence of the assembled multitude. They will give alms to the poor when the very nature of the case the world can not fail to know it. But when humble, needy, poor and despoiled wretches of humanity send up piteous wails for help, help, or we perish! they gather up the forces of their selfishness and turning on their heels, turn a deaf, yes! dead ear to such strains. Thanks to invention. At the late meeting of the Royal Society, of London, an instrument was exhibited, called the Audiometer, which satisfactorily demonstrated the precise measure of the sense of hearing. The adoption of these attachable instruments will develop the hypocritical devoutness of these few external Christians.

If the hair of the dog is good for the bite, should Fuqua or Feland be shorn? Let those who have seen and heard their stump acting say, WHICH?

A religious paper remarks on the good fortune of its brother Clark, of Helena, who has recently baptized two million of dollars into his church. Tall spires from mighty dollars grow.

"Of two evils choose the lesser." But it's six of one and a half dozen of the other; and what then? Why, hold your peace in the dignity of silence with only an occasional whoop, from the pit of enthusiasm, "Fight dog, fight dog, No dog of mine here."

Don't lose faith in the Democratic party. It is the only party that can give relief. The Greenback issue is raised on Republican soil, and the Democratic who follows the Greenback cause only cuts his own throat.—Panograph.

It is a source of gratification to all true Democrats that intelligent men are boldly expressing similar views in this country.

Perhaps Doctor Fuqua, when he attended the Democratic Convention at Louisville as a delegate, had then in view an unexpressed, though decided, purpose to blot the Democratic party from the face of the earth. But no, "times change and men change with them."

Poor Fido! poor Democrats! the beautiful little dog should have a crumb when he is starving, even as the great Democratic party should have a candidate when its members are straying. Can't some one spare the time to set up a tobacco stick, a burnt chunk, or a tombstone for the Democrats to vote for? Now don't everybody speak at once! The chosen "13" have first say.

According to the statistics of the brewers the American people drank last year six gallons of beer per capita. But until Americans learn to "do" beer as Bavarians, who guzzled eighteen gallons per capita in the same length of time, they must be content with second place in point of paunches and resignedly brood over their unfortunate lack of indiarubbi stretchiness.

If any remark which has appeared in these columns was instrumental in provoking Dr. Fuqua, the Greenbacker, to his confession at Bainbridge that his object was to blot the Democratic party from the face of the earth, then that alone is glory enough to reap in a single day. If we have not been able to get an expression from the Democracy we have at least the satisfaction of knowing that the party has been saved the expense of being duped.

"Here we come, darn our fool souls, somebody head us," we are all making a rush for the polls to vote for the candidate who publicly proclaimed that his object was to squash the Democratic party! We are exactly in the fix the fool who yoked himself up with a young bull to break him and who, too late, learned that somebody else should do the heading and stop the merciless runaway! Here we come, for the law's sake somebody head us!

Senator Beck, in urging the passage of the "free guinea" bill in the Senate, after it had been passed by the house, referred to the matter in these well-timed words:

My distinguished young colleague, Mr. McKim, from the second Missouri, had the courage to take it up, demand its passage, and put it through the house under a suspension of the rules.

Senator Davis, of Illinois, also spoke ably in favor of the passage of the bill. He concluded his speech by saying:

The people have called for this for years, and I honor Mr. McKim, the Representative of one of the Kentucky districts, for getting this bill through the House yesterday under a suspension of the rules.

One of the most remarkable sales of a trade mark was effected in Louisville the other day. The firm of C. P. Moorman & Co., have been large whisky dealers. It was dissolved a short while since and at the sale of the assets the right to the sale of the J. H. Cutler brand of whisky brought $50,000. This, of course, is mortifying to the editorial friends of "old craw," though they are none the less traitors therefor, having sworn allegiance to the cause in early youth their pledges are as lasting as those of Hamlet of old, who swore eternal vengeance to the Romans.

It is said that the recent act of Congress will not have the immediate effect of reducing the price of guinea. Messrs. Arthur, Peter & Co., of Louisville, have this to say in regard to the matter:

Guinea, as was expected by those who have given the matter thoughtful consideration, has been very much excited since the repeal of the city and it is now held at a higher price than ever, and it would cost about $200 to repeal of tariff duty on guinea has been raised through Congress without debate, and the cry of "free guinea" having been taken up by the newspapers so generally, that legislation was unduly forced along.

Messrs. R. A. Robinson & Co., the wholesale druggists, of Louisville and St. Louis, in their July circular say: "The removal of the duty of 20 per cent. from guinea has, of course, caused a great deal of interest and the effect of the passage of the bill generally that the effect of the passage of the bill, putting it upon the 'free list,' will give us higher prices for the present at least. Already large orders have gone to Europe which have advanced the prices there beyond the present cost of the American market here. One prominent foreign maker has withdrawn from the market and is offering none for sale. Speculative purchases have been made in New York and 'P & W' brand cannot be had except at an advance upon their price. The market is so excited that the price of guinea will not be stable during the summer and fall, but it is not probable that full figures will prevail."

The editor of the Hopkinsville KENTUCKIAN heads his Press Convention report with "On a Bender." We didn't think Townes would come out and tell his folks where he had been.—Constitutionalist.

"Contemptible in the Extreme."

The above was clipped from the Hopkinsville KENTUCKIAN, a Democratic paper that usually tries to be truthful and fair, but in this instance throws truth aside and exaggerates. Whether it is done maliciously or through ignorance we don't know. It is at least a specimen of one of the bravest and most honorable men in the State. We say "one" because a number of similar political attacks are contemptible in the extreme.—Madisonville Republican.

The statement was made in our columns last week that Mr. Pratt had made, at Clark's school house, an appointment to speak clandestinely, in violation of an agreement entered into with Dr. Prewitt at the commencement of the canvass. Our statement was based on such authority as is strictly to be relied on, and it little becomes the galled jade of Mr. Pratt—the Madisonville Republican—to deny the charge. The SOUTH KENTUCKIAN would have condemned such action had Dr. Prewitt himself, instead of Mr. Pratt, been guilty of the offense.

This Republican mouthpiece says: "The secret meeting, at a schoolhouse near Crofton, was an appointment of Mr. Pratt, at Clark's schoolhouse. It had been advertised all over that whole country." This statement is an intentional perversion of the truth, as any sensible man is forced to conclude from the very fact that Mr. Pratt's advertised appointments were only four in number, viz: [See New Era of June 20th, 1879.]

Crofton, June 21; Pembroke, June 28; Lafayette, July 5; Hopkinsville, July 7.

It is positively certain, from the proof which we hold, that Mr. Pratt has violated his agreement with Dr. Prewitt and the Republican only adds insult to injury by its feeble attempt to deprive the fact. Even after taking the stand to speak that night Mr. Pratt consumed the entire time, left by Mr. Feland, except about twenty-five minutes before twelve, (Sunday), and of course this debarred Dr. Prewitt from longer reply. Mr. Pratt, however, mounted the stand again and consumed probably twenty minutes of the Sabbath to reply. If we have done Mr. Pratt injustice in the matter it has been unknowingly, and if the gentleman can personally show that he has been misrepresented, it will afford us pleasure to say that the evidence which we hold is groundless. It is a great curse to the country, to the cause of civilization, morality and decency that the Republican seeks to thus falsify the facts, though nothing more can be expected of that paper as long as it has for its belated man a man who, as a hog, wallows in his own mire and then seeks to scour off the filth on that object which to all mankind seems clean and wholesome. We do not seek to prolong such a discussion as places us on a level with that man who, by his own people, is regarded not only as unclean in body but inwardly leprous, to such an extent as renders his every act a contaminating machine, fit to be credited to the demons of a devil's den, who, cursed themselves, seek to drag the very cherub and cherubim to a common level of destruction.

When the Republican learns to discuss the truth of a statement in language becoming a gentleman it will afford us pleasure to participate, but so long as that paper throws aside the convincing element of logic to supply in its place reckless invective, unworthy the mission of sense and beneath the principle of honesty, we disdainfully turn from the disgusting spectacle and consign ourselves to a peaceful dignity to await a convenient opportunity for practical application of a No. 7 boot to its wretched extremity.

We will simply state that Mr. Pratt's public reply, at Bainbridge, to the charge as contained in the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN of last week was, "If I did wrong, I ask forgiveness." He openly conceded the truth of it. It now remains to the Madisonville Republican to prove Mr. Pratt guilty of falsehood in acknowledging it, or else stand weighed in a balance with him, whom it has, as first above acknowledged, "one of the bravest, truest and most honorable men in the State."

A dispatch from Washington says that a circular, prepared by the Attorney General, is now in the hands of the printer, and will be issued in a day or two, setting forth that the judicial appropriation act for the present fiscal year itemizes all court expenditures. The different items will be quoted and directions given to the marshals to make their requisitions in accordance therewith. The circular will caution these officers against applying for money to that of another grade. Judging from the information received at the Department of Justice up to date, the United States Marshals intend to proceed with the duties of their offices and undoubtedly anticipate reimbursement by Congress.

An Atlanta, Ga., dispatch says a curious scene was witnessed at the Presbyterian Church in Decatur. A negro woman applied for admission to the church. She was called to the altar and underwent examination. This was satisfactorily concluded, and she was then regularly received into the church, and as it was communion Sunday she was invited to partake of the service and did so. Senator John B. Gordon and Congressman Chandler were among the members who took communion with her.

A venerable party of four met at Emmaus College, the residence of W. S. Giltner, last Sunday afternoon: Elder R. C. Ricketts, aged 72 years; Rev. H. B. McCowan, aged 73 years; Bishop H. H. Kavanaugh, aged 71 years; and Elder Aylett Raines, aged 82 years. Three of these were companions in youth. It was a singular occurrence.—Constitutionalist.

Panograph: Last Saturday there might have been seen in front of John Casper's fruit store a copper tank, one that played a part in the soda water trade. Pedestrians of all colors and sizes passed without giving a thought to it, but Joe Roberts, an admirable exponent of the small boy, being of a philosophical turn of mind determined to investigate with the following result: Joe put his eye to the hole that receives the pipe from the soda fountain but could see nothing. He then thought that by turning a handle that was attached to the tank the inside wonders would be revealed to him. But unfortunately, for Joe, the vessel was loaded, and as he turned the valve the fizz coming up met the phiz going down and the investigator was turned a complete somersault. The soda-water trade languisheth, and Joe's spare nickels are invested in the pensive pennant.

Sobree Springs.

By those who contemplate a visit during the heated term in search either of health or pleasure the famous Sobree Springs should not be overlooked. It is pleasantly situated within $3.25 of our city (round trip by rail) and is all that one could ask for or desire in point of comfort. The editor of this paper paid a flying visit there last week and returned highly pleased with the management of that resort. The hotel has been newly painted, inside and out, the rooms furnished in handsome style with all its modern conveniences, while the table is well supplied with every delicacy the markets of that city, Evansville and Nashville afford. The cooking is especially neat and palatable. A large, two story addition has been built, and taken as a whole no more agreeable place can be found in the country. A good band of music adds to its pleasantness, while a handsome conveyance runs free every hour and from the spring. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Couch are attending the management, and we can heartily recommend them for polite and agreeable attention. The virtue of Sobree water are well known to all in this section. They need no recommendation. The Chalybeate water is now at its height of excellence, and a few days spent pleasantly at that place will amply repay any one. The board has been reduced to $35 per month; $10 per week; $2 per day.

It is further distinctly understood that this settlement is only made between ourselves, leaving the field to any other aspirant who may choose to contest the county with the successful candidate.

And it is further agreed that we will not canvass the county or go out of town for the purpose of electing, or attending any public meetings or barbecues in the county, except by agreement of all of us. It being hereby intended that the people shall decide their choice calmly and deliberately, the one receiving the highest vote to be the candidate and the other two to withdraw their names.

The vote at each precinct to be taken down by three persons, one to be selected by each of us, or by his friends; the poll books to be returned by them to S. J. Boyd, J. D. Hays and Sam M. Gaines, and by them to be counted and the result declared, and their action to be final.

The corn crop of Christian bids fair to be one of the best raised for many years.

Wallace Coe was arraigned in court Tuesday for general disturbance and fined $25 and costs.

Summer is rapidly approaching. We may expect to have some warm weather in a few days.

The K. of P. will hold a special business meeting Wednesday night. A full attendance is desired.

A mad dog was killed on South Main street last week. Its malady was discovered before it had a chance to take any one.

There are thirty-three lawyers in Hopkinsville, and eight others in the country, making a total of forty-one for Christian county.

The Hopkinsville social club, composed of the young folks, will hold its next meeting at Col. Syper's next Friday night, 18th inst.

The weather last week was hotter than it has been for many years. Several days the thermometer ran up to over 100 degrees in the shade.

Mr. Lucian Jones has formed a partnership with Mr. J. D. Russell, of Clarksville, Tenn., and the firm name in the future will be Jones & Russell.

In spite of assertions to the contrary a full tobacco crop has not been planted, and three-fourths of a crop at best is all that may be expected.

Hon. James A. McKenzie went up to Madisonville yesterday to deliver an address. He will speak at the court-house in this city Monday, July 28th.

Give Hall holds the fort fearlessly. As long as his right hand forgets not its cunning in mixing spiked lemonade, the fear of sunstroke is but a flimsy shadow.

All the members of the Baptist Church are earnestly requested to attend prayer meeting on to-morrow night, as business of great importance will be attended to.

Mrs. Lewis, the mother of Rev. J. W. Lewis, died on the 11th inst. at the residence of the latter in this city. She was one of the best of women and her demise is deeply regretted.

The "devil" of the South Kentucky and the "devil" of the New Era "locked horns" at the mill-pond Friday night while in bathing costume. Both claim the victory.

Prof. Horrold's Bread Preparation, the popular Baking Powder of New England, is being introduced in this vicinity. We advise all our lady friends to give it a trial.

We are happy to announce this week, that we have added to our list of correspondents the gifted "Herald" of Crofton. We now have every place of importance in the county represented in our columns.

Messrs. Cowan & Baker alone have shipped this season 128,000 bushels of wheat. The average price has been about $2.10 cents, and the bulk of it has been sent to New York. They are still constantly receiving and shipping thousands of bushels weekly.

We publish an interesting communication from Lafayette this week. The KENTUCKIAN is glad to add the author to its list of correspondents, returning thanks for the prompt response to the invitation of last week. Hope this will be but the initial of a series of letters from the same ready pen.

The new bank building is being pushed ahead with vigor. If we have been correctly informed, Mr. Lucian Jones will be the President and Messrs. G. C. & E. B. Long the cashier and book-keeper of the bank. Several of the mounted men of the county are connected with it, and no doubt it will be placed upon a firm and reliable foundation.

The concert of the Amateur Dramatic Club will no doubt be largely attended to-night. The company arrived this morning and is composed of young people of New Providence, many of whom are well known in this city. They have played with fine success in Clarksville and New Providence, and our citizens should greet them with a large audience to night and not only be highly entertained themselves but thereby aid a worthy and charitable enterprise. As has been stated the proceeds are to be appropriated for the benefit of the Sunday schools of New Providence. A programme has been handed out, and the rendition of the two dramas "Little Treasure" and "The Old Frenchman" (burlesque) will no doubt be in a manner satisfactory to all. The papers of Clarksville commend the club very highly. Turn out one and all and give them a full house. Tickets for sale at Garnett's drug store, at 50 cts. Reserved seats without extra charge.

Public Speaking.

Dr. J. H. Prewitt, Democratic nominee for State Senator, will address the citizens of Christian at the following times and places:

Crofton, Tuesday, 15th.

Casky, Wednesday, 16th.

Barker's Mill, Thursday, 17th.

Pembroke, Friday, 18th.

Fairview, Saturday, 19th.

Speaking to commence at 1:30 p. m. Mr. Clark and Mr. Pratt are invited to attend and participate in the discussions.

Notice of Absence.

I shall leave to-morrow, with my family, to visit my old home in North Carolina and shall probably be absent four or five weeks. I have to greatly thank my patrons for past favors and for an excuse for my present absence. Due notice will be given of my return. Very respectfully, R. D. FLEMING.

Almost a Fire.

A cabin near the residence of Dr. Keen, occupied by negroes, was set on fire by the sparks from a passing train last week, and for some time there was a fine prospect for a conflagration. The flames, however, were finally extinguished without the aid of the engine.

The County Canvass.

Dr. J. H. Prewitt and Mr. J. C. Pratt, candidates for the upper, and Mr. John Feland and Dr. Fuqua, candidates for the lower House of the Legislature have been making an active canvass of the county during the past week. Dr. Prewitt is creating great enthusiasm wherever he goes. He is entirely acceptable to the Democratic party, and will poll a full vote in the county. He remains himself well on the stump, and completely demolishes his opponent. We feel confident of his success and only regret that in the obedience to the will of thirteen men we are denied a candidate for representative. Democrats of Christian county, write the names of those men upon the tablets of your memories, and preserve them for future reference. As matters stand now, Mr. Feland will, of course, be elected.

There is a growing tendency on the part of a large class of people to assemble at the depot when the 8:22 train comes in. Of course we do not mean to say that they ought to be prohibited that privilege as long as they are not a source of annoyance to the traveling public. However, it is a fact that they congregated in such numbers, without any ostensible business, that it is almost impossible for a lady to get on or off the train. As soon as the train stops the mob rushes to the steps and those who get off must necessarily elbow their way through a crowd of rude men and boys, and impudent negroes, of all sizes, sexes, and colors. Let the police look into the matter and see that the roughs are kept at a proper distance, and thereby do away with a great nuisance.

CERULEAN SPRINGS.

We are having plenty of rain and warm weather.

Rev. Higham will preach at Cave Spring next Sunday a large congregation is expected to be in attendance. It is with regret we chronicle the death of Uncle Allen Phillips, who died in his 63d year, after an illness of many months. He bore his affliction with Christian fortitude, telling his friends that he was ready and waiting for that call from the sire of all good, to a brighter and better world.

Mr. James McKinney and his charming sisters, Misses Mattie and Ida, of Roaring Spring and Miss Lallie Weeks, from Tobaccoport, Tenn., attended the grand fourth at the Springs.

The barbecue was a complete success, plenty to eat and drink; everybody enjoying himself hugely till the rain, when the people retired to the ball room where they were highly entertained for two or three hours by the candidates for the Senate and Legislature, Messrs. Fuqua and Fleming, of the corner, and Wimberly and Burnett of the latter. Owing to the protracted rain nearly everybody had to stay over night with Mr. Harper. After supper the people again assembled at the ball room and spent the most of the night in the gay fantastic step of the dance. Miss Mary Goodwin one of Cerulean's fairest belles is visiting friends in Caldwell.

Some of the boys are rejoicing over the departure of Tobe Hart. Perhaps it is best for him as he was in a fair way to get hurt when last seen.

STEVE CLIFF.

GROFTON.

We notice you want a "good correspondent" at this place. Well, we are your man, and if we are not a good one we would like to find the man who is. We are not much of a paragraphist; the fact is we know more than a paragraph about most things, and we are bound to say it. But this is neither here nor there, it is our business to write and yours to publish, or consign to the waste basket just as you please.

To begin with, politics is all the go here. Every man you meet is a full-fledged statesman—a first class financier, who, if he only had his way, could make the deserts and solitary places glad, and the wilderness blossom as the rose. It is literally nothing else but greenbacks from morning until night. The week is a growing wild in tobacco fields; the wheat crop is fast rotting in the shock; the forest tassel, may cry in the wild delirium of his suffering for water; the red-eyed widow clasps her boneless-gummed babe to her famished breast, but still the people cry out, "give us more greenbacks."

We acknowledge that we do not get excited about this money question; we never owned enough money to make a fool of us; we have never wanted for a dollar since we grew to be a man, and we never will while we possess health and strength to earn it. We never spent a dollar we did not earn; never got a dollar dishonestly; and we tell you now young man you need not stand idly by and expect Congress to legislate money into your pocket. It will never do it! never!

If you want money do something—work for it. The man who scatters no seeds, who sows no planes, who drives no pigs, who keeps no books, who flourishes no yardsticks, who solves no problems, who strikes no anvils, who guides no engines, who prepares no briefs, who preaches no sermons, and on through all the trades and professions, we say the man who does nothing will never own any greenbacks, neither does he deserve any. If there be anything in this world that we do not want it is money we never earned. Now, young man, keep out of saloons—away from here, where feet go down to death, and steps take hold on hell! Sell your shot-guns and go to work; make something out of it if you want money. It is not right for you to lie around and do nothing, earn nothing, and at the same time cry out "bondholder" to the man who has the nerve—the energy—to go on and earn a dollar, while you are too contemptibly lazy to earn it yourself.

Van Dulin's new, sulky is the admiration of all Pond river. It is as striped as a barber's pole, and as pretty as a regiment of sweet sixteen.

Mrs. Sarah Taggart died at her residence near here a few days since.

Many boys are trying of cholera.

Tell Dr. Rodman there are thousands of young birds here.

HYMAN.

LAFAYETTE.

I believe that it is a favorite theory of an eccentric speculator upon "men and manners," that all sorts of people are required to make up the social element of a habitable and agreeable world, and just so it is of the contributions that fill the columns of a readable newspaper—when quite a versatility of talent, is requisite to pander to the varied tastes of its readers. But you desire to hear from Lafayette. We were only waiting for the solicitation of our communication from this dear and lovable part of creation, to assure you that we "live, move, and have a being," much in the order of other civilized communities, despite the fact that has so often been disparagingly asserted of us, that we were just twenty miles from every other point around us, an evil, however, that could easily be obviated by a railway. We care not whether broad or narrow gauge it brings us into closer relationship with our sister towns. Perhaps no finer tobacco is grown at any point than around Lafayette, and the quality of the product generally, would doubtless increase in value and interest if more accessible to market. And would we not economize in time and money also by a swifter mode of transportation? Christian county ranks, it is said, third in regard to wealth, and it is generally conceded that an spirit of improvement is heartily endorsed by nearly all; we simply need an impetus to put us in motion. We would suggest locomotion, and a railroad as speedily as possible.

As a town, Lafayette is daily improving. Within the past year, Mr. J. C. Carothers and Mr. Robert Beatty, Jr., have erected large and commodious business houses. Mr. J. Griffin has completed a beautiful cottage, while Mr. Thomas Terry and Mr. Stamper have now in process of erection each, handsome residences, which when completed will greatly to the appearance of the town. Lafayette contains four dry goods establishments, whose proprietors are gentlemen of taste, and whose houses are filled with the best that the market affords elsewhere.

We have three drug stores, four groceries, one carriage factory, two cabinet shops, one blacksmith, one saddle, one cooper and one shoe shop; a millinery and two mantua-making establishments. We also boast of three dentists, two local and one transient; four physicians, three that in any community, would be called "gentlemen," the fourth, who is not a local, is a native of the State, and a refined, Lafayette ranks with many of our larger towns.

Our schools, two in number, are first-class; while our pulpits are filled by men of talent. Bro. Redford, of the Methodist church, is deservedly popular, not only with his own membership, but to all others who have his social and genial bearing. Bro. Mobley, who occupies the pulpit in the Christian church, is also universally revered and beloved. He preaches every first Sunday and always to a well filled and appreciative house.

Despite the distance we are from a railroad, Lafayette is a nice resort to visitors from a distance. The parsonage just now is much enlivened by the presence of Mrs. and Miss Turpin, of Nashville, while the pleasant home of Dr. N. M. Edwards is made glad by a visit from Miss Griffith and her charming daughter, a beautiful and attractive young lady, of Bloomington, Illinois.

Several guests are at the Beasley House, kept by Mr. Jos. Bazemey, a most accommodating gentleman who entertains in good style without visible recognition; not even a "loyal fire cracker" broke the stillness of that "sultry summer's day." I sometimes think that we, of southern proclivities, have not fairly reconstructed in regard to that once glorious birthday of recollections—Independence Day.

Saturday the 6th, Dr. Fuqua and Mr. Clark addressed the people. Not being present I cannot report.

The Grange, so long slumbering, has awakened, re-organized and consolidated with the Burnettsville Grange. To meet monthly.

The matrimonial market dull. Neither "marrying nor giving in marriage," although picnics and festivals are rife, and pretty girls more plentiful than blackberries or office seekers.

Having promptly responded to a call from Lafayette, we ask your kindly indulgence for our "groundhog" in the poet's column, when the tobacco crops shall all have been sold, and we are thereby enabled to avoid a rejection, as well as to meet the demands of the stipulated ten cents per line.

LONG HOLLOW.

Wheat threshing is now the order of the day.

Corn looks well.

Tobacco is being cut considerably by the bugs and grasshoppers.

John Cobb is running a "groundhog" in the poet's column, when the tobacco crops shall all have been sold, and we are thereby enabled to avoid a rejection, as well as to meet the demands of the stipulated ten cents per line.

"Kick" Dyer subscribed for the South Kentuckyian but when the act called on him for the "skads" "Kick" got "riled up" and swore he would whip the agent in less than ten minutes. He required for a mail to "single foot it through" to San Francisco. When asked to explain "Kick" said: "I am going to marry and I need my two dollars." Since the "gal" ascertained his caper and went "squarely back on him." Kick now wants to see the agent.

We are informed that Mr. George McCraw will hold forth at the school house to-night.

Wm. Handcock keeps a tippler's shop and when he sells out one jug of "Kill me quick" he instantly sends for another.

Miss Lallie Summers of the "free" state is visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity. Miss Lallie is an interesting and accomplished young lady and therefore, the young gentlemen especially hope she will tarry with us quite a while.

Tandy McGee of Bennettsville was down to see his "gal" last Sunday.

Sam Anshuman is so clever that he even puts the "machine" that grinds his corn, and calls it "Mills" instead of "mill."

Health is good.

SANCO.

Mr. John B. Gaines has sold out his one-third interest in the Adairville Clipper to Mr. J. S. Stanley.

Business seems to be reviving. Wheat is abundant, and corn, it is said, will be a fair crop. Vegetable matter will be plentiful and the grass crop can be depended upon. However, it is to hinder us from having good times the coming fall, and winter?—Bardstown Local Item.

BELLEVIEW.

This is bitter wine week—wild cherries are ripe.

Business on the improve.

There was a basket picnic at Concord Saturday last.

There is a great deal of complaint about sickness. Dr. Cullum says that pill-rolling is somewhat livelier than for several months past.

There were seven additions to the West Union church last Sunday. Rev. A. W. Meacham preached on that day to a large congregation.

Tramp traveling is diminishing rapidly.

Cepion showers of rain are much needed for the corn and tobacco crops.

The Rev. McCall, recently of Crofton, Ky., has moved to this place.

Mr. M. S. Hopson has purchased the property at Old Bellevue, belonging to Mr. J. W. McGee, and will move to his new home the first of August.

The colored people will hold an association at an old church, in this place, the first week in August. Several thousands are expected to attend, and the fields adjoining the church have already spoken for in order that the immense crowd expected may have accommodations and room.

SHORTFELLOW.

No Surrender—44 or Fight.

Editor South Kentuckyian:

The writer is not a politician and usually takes but small interest in the political questions of the day, as far as words or actions are concerned, but never fails to follow, however, for his part, the best of the present.

It is a sad condition of the Democratic party in this county has aroused his fear for its existence as a party organization. I am forced to the conclusion, after much thought on the subject, that if the Democratic party of Christian county expect to maintain its party organization, and has not determined in advance to die a rational death, it should arouse itself at once from the apparent sleep into which it has fallen, and through its Executive Committee, call a convention to nominate a candidate for the Legislature.

The Greenback party, so-called, is only a disguise in disguise. It will not only increase Mr. Feland's majority, but leave the Democratic party without representation in old Christian, and its organization virtually abandoned. Is this state of things to exist in the home of McKenzie, who has done such good service in Congress for the people at large, for the planter in getting the tax on tobacco reduced, but more especially to all the poor in every malady district by his recent efforts in removing the tax on quinine and all the banks of which it is manufactured? This act alone will save the lives of thousands of those who have been heretofore too poor to pay the high price for quinine, and as a consequence, have annually been "shaken" by malaria into untimely graves. Long life and success to McKenzie for this act of his official acts to do for the people.

But this indolent condition of his party is really an insult to him who has so gallantly and faithfully borne its flag on so many hotly contested fields and each time in triumph, with victory inscribed on its ample folds.

Such a course is simply suicidal. After conversing freely with a large number of true and staunch Democrats in this portion of the county (all the Southern portion) I am satisfied many will support the Republican in preference to the Greenback candidate, because, as they say, he (Mr. Feland) is an open foe, and has not a radical made a good representative, and they believe him to be high-toned and honest, and does not seek the office, while the great majority will, I believe—many have so expressed themselves—not vote at all. Some say unless there is a genuine Democrat in the field they will go to the polls, and settle many purses in this latter course it might result in the defeat of our candidate for the Senate, Dr. Prewitt. This is a natural result, from the fact that every thinking Democrat can only

The Tobacco-Worm Moth.

Editor Farmers' Home Journal.

Herewith I take the liberty of sending you for publication, a letter from the Agricultural Department Washington, in answer to some questions propounded by me concerning the life and habits of the tobacco fly. An article I read in the Tobacco Leaf, and copied therefrom by several other papers on that subject, caused me to make the inquiries.

E. SCHNEIDER.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, DIVISION OF ENTOMOLOGY, WASHINGTON, D. C. May 19, 1879.

Sir: In the absence of Professor Comstock, I take the liberty of answering the queries of Mr. E. Schneider, of Fairview, Todd county, Ky., as follows:

1. The Southern Tobacco-worm moth (Mamestra configurata, Linn.) undoubtedly lives for several weeks in the perfect state.

2. The female is rather larger than the male, but other difference is imperceptible except in the genitalia.

3. The female will begin to lay her eggs shortly after attaining the power of flight, whether she has been impregnated or not.

4. In nearly every case the female is impregnated very soon after emerging from the chrysalis.

5. In all probability each female will deposit between one and two hundred eggs.

6. In the latitude of Fairview, the complete round of metamorphoses is probably undergone in about two months.

The correspondence of the Tobacco Leaf has evidently been misled by the habit which the moth has of depositing her eggs unimpregnated while in confinement, and it is important, as Mr. Schneider says, that his deductions should be refuted, as much can be done toward lessening the numbers of the worms by poisoning the moth by the agency of the Jamestown weed flower. Very respectfully,

I. O. HOWARD, Assistant in Entomological Division, Hon. W. G. LeDuc, Commissioner.

The Great Wheat Deal.

Chicago Tribune.

The wheat deal which closed yesterday is in many respects the most remarkable operation in grain that was ever engineered in this country. The combination on the "long" side was organized early in last May, and was the natural outgrowth of the Keen purchase of 3,000,000 bushels last fall. Possessed of almost unlimited capital, it went into the market, and in addition to buying all the options offered for May and June, secured the control of the wheat market that was offered. The stock in Milwaukee, Buffalo and New York were also purchased, and to day there is not a bushel of No. 2 spring wheat in this country or abroad for Europe that does not belong to this combination. The options were bought at an average price of 92 cents per bushel, and the great bulk of them were settled at about $1.03 and $1.04, although at the close the clearings were made at $1.06 and $1.07. The profits on the deal must foot up in the neighborhood of $1,000,000. The combination insist that they made no attempt to work a corner; they found the wheat on its merits, and confidently believe that it will sell for at least $1.26 before any of the crop will be harvested. Few will be found to sympathize with the "bears" in their enormous losses, for the reason that for two successive seasons they have discredited and depreciated the crop, and are now simply called upon to shell out what properly and honestly should have lined the pockets of the producer.

Advice to a Young Man.

Young man, when you see anything you want, ask for it like a man. If you want to borrow five dollars of a man, or if you only want to marry his daughter, don't slide up to him and hang on to your hat and talk politics and religion and weather, and tell old stale jokes whereof you can't remember the point, until you worry the old man into a nervous irritation. Go at him with a full head of steam on and your bow open, like an iron-clad pulling for a shore battery. Snort and paw and shake your head if you feel like it, no matter if it does make him look astonished. Better astonish him than bore him. Go into his heart or his pocketbook, or both, and show you aren't afraid to speak what's on your mind. And that's a great deal more than you would accomplish by the other method. You needn't be cheeky, but you ought to be straightforward.

Numismatics.

For the information of the numismatics the Journal of Commerce publishes a list of the dates by years of the issue of the different denominations of silver coins, including one and two cent pieces. Pattern cents, called the "Washington cents," were issued in 1791 and 1792, and a few of these pattern cents bearing a different legend about the same time. A few silver "Dime" and "Half Dime," as patterns, were coined in 1792. The first regular copper cent was coined in 1793, and thence yearly except in 1815, when none were struck. In 1794 a dollar, half dollar and half dime were struck, and thence yearly. The first quarter and the first dime appeared in 1796, and then annually. Three cent pieces of silver were coined in 1851, and changed again in 1853. The nickel cent was introduced in 1863. The twenty cent piece was authorized by act of March 3, 1875, and its further coinage prohibited by act of May 2, 1878. The two cent copper coin was authorized 22d April, 1864, the three cent copper and nickel piece March 3, 1865, and the five cent copper and nickel May 16, 1866.

"Who Is That Dog Ingersoll?"

Detective Gottlieb Miller, of Allegheny City, Pa., was much shocked, on Wednesday, to receive a letter from Col. Robert G. Ingersoll. Gottlieb read from this letter: "I have gone over the ground to the best of my ability long ago, and there is just as much probability of my becoming a believer in the religion of ancient Egypt as in Christianity." "Mine Got, who is that Ingersoll?" But he read on: "Let me prophesy—in five years from to-day no man of intelligence in the United States will preach the infamous doctrine of eternal punishment." Gottlieb did not know what to make of the matter until some of his fellows admitted that they had written to the Illinois Iconoclast in the detective's name, asking whether it was true, as reported, that "within a year Col. Ingersoll would be a preacher of the Gospel?"

In 1794 a dollar, half dollar and half dime were struck, and thence yearly. The first quarter and the first dime appeared in 1796, and then annually. Three cent pieces of silver were coined in 1851, and changed again in 1853. The nickel cent was introduced in 1863. The twenty cent piece was authorized by act of March 3, 1875, and its further coinage prohibited by act of May 2, 1878. The two cent copper coin was authorized 22d April, 1864, the three cent copper and nickel piece March 3, 1865, and the five cent copper and nickel May 16, 1866.

Celebrated.

Two articles have made the name of Steel & Price celebrated; their Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, and Special Flavoring Extracts. These preparations are, without question, the finest of their kinds in the world, and they will eventually be used as a luxury from one end of our country to the other.
